

Kevin Mitnick

The World's Most Famous Hacker

Want an event they won't forget?

The Social Security Administration (SAA):

"... The audience was captivated by his live demonstration of what information is available at the click of a mouse..."

The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA):

"... We will encourage all employees to implement the precautionary tactics..."

The AIM Institute:

"... It's both frightening and informative to hear how effective social engineering can be in accessing what should be security sensitive information..."

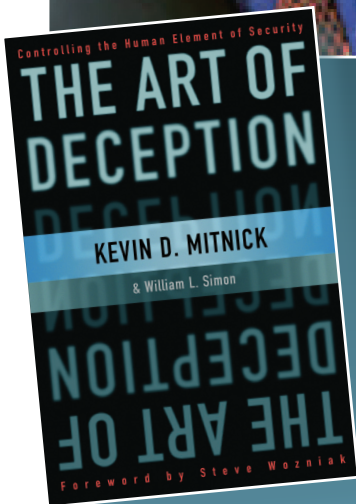

The 41st Parameter says:

"... a standing room only event! The audience was fascinated with the information the panel shared, due in large part to Kevin's high-impact insights and demos."

Real Stories — Real Demos

The World's Most Famous Hacker Entertains and Informs

Now a force for good, he was once “America’s Most Wanted Computer Outlaw”. Kevin is recognized by millions worldwide and is the subject of numerous books, magazine articles and movies. Kevin now runs Mitnick Security Consulting and helps the world’s top organizations and companies become more secure and informed.

What is a Presentation like?

... in 30 seconds he flashes her Social Security number and home address... he magically makes the man’s calls appear to come from the White House... he cloned Citibank’s telebanking information... On the giant presentation screen, the woman’s laptop directory appears. “You don’t mind me looking through your hard drive?” Mitnick chuckles, getting laughs... “You can stop now” she says...
